

TEAM MISSION

Every team has an overriding mission or general reason for being a team. The MISSION captures the essence of the team, the basic values, and every team member should have a part in developing the team mission statement. After all, if you have to implement actions based on your mission, you are much more likely to implement positive actions with enthusiasm if you helped decide on the mission in the first place.

If it's your plan, you are more likely implement it.

If you own it, you follow through.

If it's yours, you take more responsibility for it.

What phrases or sentence would you use to describe your team's mission? What are you committed or dedicated to?
